Overview of the HV CoIIN & New Opportunities

Breakouts

- Scaling Solutions in Well-Child Visits
- Igniting Change in Postpartum Well-Being

Q&A

What is HV CoIN?

HV CoIN offers an innovative opportunity to:

- Build CQI capacity by applying new skills to priority home visiting topics.
- Ground your improvement efforts in family leadership and health equity to ensure every family reaches their highest potential.
- Learn from your peers as you work together to achieve critical outcomes.

[HV CoIN]’s helping our team work better!

“

Despite (or because of the fact) that it’s hard, the result has always been very positive. We have set stretch goals and met them, which was a real reward for us. We are using this CQI process to really help families and it’s working – that keeps us coming back.

“

The CoIN experience has brought our team closer together. It created a common goal that we were able to problem solve and work through together.

“

CoIN is great professional development and a launching pad to be able to do this on our own.

Launching the next cohort of the Change Champions Series!

Four new opportunities to accelerate your CQI work in 2024-2025:

- Mix of time-limited and longer-term options
- Variety of topics and methods
- Appealing to teams that want proven solutions or want to innovate
- Open to all levels of CQI experience

Be Part of a Movement to Achieve Breakthrough Change

Shared Aim: By March 2026, 75% of children enrolled in home visiting receive their last expected well-child visit on time, based on the American Academy of Pediatrics schedule.

In addition, each team will work to close a gap that they identify in their program's well-child visit data to achieve meaningful change in their community.

The Gap in Home Visiting

- Close to 30% of children enrolled in MIECHV did not receive the most recent recommended well-child visit in 2023.
- Well-child visit rates vary by race, ethnicity, insurance status, and geography.
- Disparities in well-child visit attendance widened during the pandemic.

Opportunities for WCV...

Increase communication between HV programs and children's primary care providers

Increase referrals from primary care to home visiting and from home visiting to primary care

Reinforce connections to community resources

Strengthen the early childhood system of care

The Maternal, Infant, and Early Childhood Home Visiting Program Brief, June 2024. Abdus & Selden, Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Attendance to Well-Child Visit Recommendations during COVID-19. Acad Pediatr. 2024 Aug; 24(6):922-929.

Why Now?

Well-Child Visit CoIIN offers an opportunity to:

- Improve well-child visit participation to close a gap identified in your program data.
- Adapt proven solutions endorsed by other home visiting programs to meet the needs of your community.
- Build and strengthen relationships between your home visiting program and primary care practices.

I now know more about the parent's relationship with their child's doctor.”

“
The most important thing I've learned about building relationships with primary care providers is how having these relationships ensures a better experience for families.”

“
This CoIIN has given us a fresh lens to engage with other health care providers like Pediatric Mental Health Access, Alabama Chapter of the AAP, and the Alabama Child Health Alliance.”

“
Compared to before the CoIIN, we now have conversations with parents about what to expect before the well-child visits and discuss their reactions afterwards.”

OPPORTUNITIES, RESOURCES & EXPECTATIONS

HOW: BUILD CONFIDENCE WITH A STRONG LEARNING SYSTEM

Ideas to Test

Peer
Connections

Accessible Data System

Quality Improvement Frameworks

Reimagining our CQI Efforts to Advance Health Equity

Opportunity to learn with others to:

- Build diverse CQI teams that are rich in knowledge, lived experience and perspectives
- Ground our efforts in our community history and present injustices
- Identify and address the structural and social determinants of health
- Utilize data to identify and drive improvement efforts to eliminate inequities
- Adapt changes to eliminate any observed inequities

Family Leadership: A Belief at the Core of HV CoIN

Every caregiver adds value when they have an equal opportunity to share and leverage their strengths and gifts toward change efforts.

"I want to give back to my home visitor some of what she gives me. I am so glad to have an opportunity to help other moms through my experience."

— Parent Leader

We have the resources and support necessary for success:

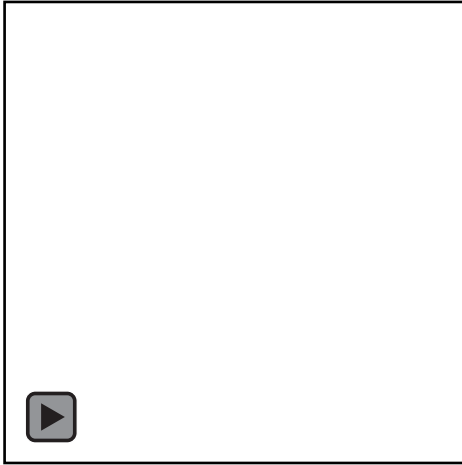

Supported by Improvement Advisor, Expert Faculty, Equity Coach, Family Leadership coach, website and dashboard

“ We’re impacting our community and getting results. We’re also paving the way for better things, creating processes that others can use and be successful with it. ”

“ Often, CQI state leads can feel like they are operating all by themselves. So, it’s really nice to have that peer support and learn from others in their same role. ”

Is HV CollN right for my state?

“Many of us have never been to a well-child visit. Hearing from a primary care provider directly about what to expect was helpful for us and helped us build a relationship!”

—Alabama home visitor

Home Visitor Stories

“We were able to establish a Parent Leadership Team and with them learn about the barriers to getting to their WCV visits and what we could do to change these”

—Alabama team
